RAINFALL IN WESTERN KANSAS

CONTINUED FALL OF MOISTURE TOTALS MORE THAN TWO INCHES OF WATER.

Ground Soaked to a Good Depth and Grass and Sowed Grain Coming On Rapidly—Snow's Theory as to Origin of Kansas Rain.

The continued falling of rain in western Kansas, which began last week and extended into the fore part of this week, has given Sherman county a soaking, the like of which has not been experienced for many months. Previous to the recent coming of rain everything was extremely dry and agricultural activities were at a standstill because of the desiccated condition of the soil. A light acreage had already been put in, both in the fall and spring, but the wind and the drouth was doing bad work until the welcome moisture came. Wheat fields are now coming on fast and the grass is accomplishing a rapid growth.

The recent coming of moisture had all the characteristics of an "eastern rain." It did not come with a great noise of thunder and lightning, and then perhaps fail to materialize, but the clouds crept quietly over the sky followed by a steady downpour and a favorable temperature. Rain fell at night as well as in daytime, and the precipitation is conservatively estimated at 2 1/2 inches. Little if it has been lost by evaporation, as the continued cloudy weather has permitted all of the water to soak into the ground.

Since these steady and copious rains have come, discussion as to the source of Kansas rain has arisen. According to the theory that an excessive snowfall in the Rocky mountains is followed by an abundant rainfall in Kansas the following season, while a deficiency of snowfall indicates the probability of a serious deficiency, is combated by Dr. F. H. Snow, of the University of Kansas, who believes that the rains of Kansas are caused by winds from the Gulf of Mexico. He has studied the weather of Kansas 37 years, and supports his theory by argument, which is the result of much hard study and close observation. In talking of the question as to the source of Kansas rainfall, Dr. Snow recently said:

"Notwithstanding the deficiency of snow in the Rocky mountain region last winter, the rainfall of Kansas in March and April greatly exceeded the normal amount and furnished a sufficient refutation of the theory that Kansas rainfall depends upon the mountain snow. The most probable source of the moisture which produces the Kansas rainfall is the Gulf of Mexico. The prevailing winds of Kansas in the latter part of spring, the entire summer, and the first half of autumn, are from the south and southwest."

Dr. Snow's theory is that the winds of western Kansas come from across the hot, sandy country of New Mexico and western Kansas, and that the winds of eastern Kansas come from the gulf. The moisture-laden winds of eastern Kansas blow over central northern Texas, central Oklahoma and after crossing Kansas take a northwestern course through southeastern Nebraska, northwestern Missouri and over Iowa. This territory is in the rainbelt and is not subject to dry seasons as in western Kansas and parts of other states over which the dry, hot winds from the far southwest pass. These dry winds, after their course over New Mexico, and western Texas, cross western Kansas and pursue a course further east in Nebraska than in Kansas, and then into the Dakotas.

"The sea breezes from the gulf of Mexico," said Dr. Snow, "extend westward into south Texas for a considerable distance, gradually veering to the north and joining in the regular south-west winds, bringing abundant moisture to the eastern part of Kansas, while the western half of the state, lying beyond the moisture-laden winds from the gulf, has a different rainfall in each locality according to its distance from the northward moving moisture-laden currents."

GOLD IN A NUT-SHELL.

Use of the Campbell System Invaluable to Northwest Kansas.

The Campbell system of agriculture, from which such rich results are being obtained in western farming, means nothing more or less than a cropping of the concerned soil every other year with a careful and scientific preparation of the ground during the twelve months interim. The farmer plows his ground to a depth of from seven to ten inches in the fall, thoroughly pulverizing the soil by the use of a heavy harrow. In the next early spring the soil is again harrowed, the harrow being thereafter used after each recurring spring rainfall, the result being the formation of a dust deposit or crust, which effectually conserves from wind sweep, or natural atmospheric evaporation the moisture garnered in the soil during the winter snow-fall or spring rain precipitation. In the fall this prepared and moisture-guarded soil is sown to winter wheat—for instance—with a next year harvest result which rivals, if not actually surpasses, the most prolific returns of western canal irrigation. Distributed beneath the western dry divide areas at, perhaps, a minimum depth of three feet, is a clay subsoil deposit impervious to water. The Campbell system of "dry" region agriculture, is, therefore, really a scientific application of natural irrigation; the winter and spring moisture being thoroughly conserved and actually reserved upon the broad surface of the impervious clay subsoil—a fact which fully explains why western Kansas land, which, under the Campbell system has yielded as high as seventy-eight bushels per acre, while immediately adjoining acreage farmed with usual season conditions, returned from twenty to thirty bushels per acre.

Employed by Coal Company?
It is reported that Chauncey Dewey is no longer living at Manhattan, but has taken up his residence in Denver, where he is employed by a coal company.—Salina Journal.

After Chauncey's miraculous escape at the Norton trial, perhaps a change of air and scenery is needful, but you may be sure he is not mixing any of the ambrosia with coal fumes. We will have to be shown.

BEEF STEER AVERAGE IS $4.75.

Biggest Shipment of Hogs This Year Affects Prices.

Kansas City, Mo., May 3.—Heavy cattle receipts last Wednesday and Thursday caused a lowering of prices, and the gains of the first of the week were lost, general market closing about like close of previous week, with she stuff and stockers and feeders possibly a shade better. Receipts for two days this week have not been excessive, 16,000 head, but prices have been barely steady, although no general loss can be noted. Top steers brought $5.35 to-day, Hereford steers and very choice. Too many light to medium heifers appeared to-day and buyers bid 5 to 10 cents lower for them. Plain heavy steers were also slow, but otherwise the market was steady; $4.40 to $4.90 is favorite price for fair to good beef steers. Heavy cows bring up to $4.40, heifers have sold in several cases past week up to $4.70. Bulls range from $2.65 to $3.85, veal calves $2.75 to $5.75. Choice stockers sell up to $4.70, best feeders around $4.50. Stock cows are scarce and wanted at $2.25 to $3.25. Outside demand for killing stock is good, and salesmen see no reason why prices should not make some gains during present month.

Hog prices are going down faster than usual this week. Receipts are heavy at all points, 53,300 head arriving here last week, the biggest week this year. Market was off 10 cents yesterday, and is weak to 5 cents lower to-day, closing at the weakest point. Top price is $4.72 1/2 to-day, same as yesterday, bulk of all sales at $4.55 to $4.70. Weights below 200 pounds sell up to $4.65. Still further losses are expected.

Kansas and Colorado feed lots are about empty of sheep and lambs, and the light run of 16,000 last week met with highest prices of the year. Lambs sold up to $6.75, clipped lambs at $6, ewes at $5.50, in fleece. Texas season opened yesterday, and supply in two days amounts to 14,000 head. Prices held up well yesterday, but are 5 to 10 cents lower to-day. It is a fact, however, that packers are anxious for killing stock, and the mutton market is in condition to stand heavy rains without much injury to prices.—J. A. Rickart, Live Stock Correspondent.

Monday Was Moving Day.

Monday was moving day. Families moved about from house to house like men on a chess board. The buying and building of houses is the cause of people changing their place of residence for more comfortable and commodious quarters. The Sapp family moved into the house they bought of B. W. Jacobs, and H. K. Wheat moved into the Coleman house this vacated. Mrs. Lizzie Farrow moved into the Thorson house vacated by Ed Heston, who now occupy one of the Chambers' houses. The new house just completed on East Eleventh street, owned by M. H. Wilson, has two families in it for the present.

Death of Little Child.

Edna Brinker, sixteen months' old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Brinker, died at six o'clock Wednesday evening of inflammation of the bowels. Funeral services were held at the home at two o'clock Thursday. Rev. Stevens pronounced the ceremony. This little girl had many admirers outside of her own home.

For Those Who Live on Farms.

Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns." Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns and bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house in case of emergency. 25c, 50c, $1, at Arensburg & Cullen's.

CONFIRMATION ADMINISTERED.

Catholic Church Receives Seventeen Into Full Membership.

At the Catholic church Sunday forenoon seventeen candidates were given the sacrament of confirmation by Bishop John Francis Cunningham, of Concordia, bishop of the Kansas diocese. Those who received this holy sacrament were: Mrs. Gertrude Butler, Katie and Gertrude Doerfer, Nellie Dooling, Gertrude, Casper and Henry Brinkman, Willie Brown, Nellie and Clement Nickles, Eva, Dora and Dell Bickett, Herman and Minnie Kreuzer, Edna Lemmer and Meldeu Hayden. Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Griffin acted as sponsors.

The church was crowded and the music throughout the mass was good. The service was long, lasting until 2:15 in the afternoon, but that was owing to the examination of the class on questions from the catechism. The confirmation ceremony, the anointing with oil and the spoken words of the bishop, whose robes were gorgeous as well as significant, was impressive.

After the confirmation, Bishop Cunningham in a short address told the new-made members the life they should live to be successful Christians. It was words fitly spoken. Father Flemming assisted in the service.

Bishop Cunningham left Monday morning for Norton to dedicate a Catholic church in that city.

After Express Companies.

A press dispatch from San Francisco, dated April 30, says that more books of the Wells-Fargo company have been inspected and more of its officials examined by the Texas authorities in the suit brought by that state to put into effect the new railroad commission tariff reducing the rates of express companies between nine and ten per cent.

In the course of cross-examination the fact was developed that Wells-Fargo company in 1903 made a deal with the Southern Pacific railway by which it got a renewal for 13 years of the exclusive express privilege on the Southern Pacific lines.

For this privilege the express company paid the railroad a bonus of three million dollars, including $750,000 of express company stock and agreed to give it 40 per cent of its gross earnings.

The Texas officials are probing deeply into the company's statement of its expenses in Texas and also into the volume of its receipts in order to show that the company can afford to have its revenue reduced as proposed by the railroad commission.

The rates of all the express companies are exorbitant. They pay little or no tax compared with their income and profit. Why the Kansas board has not taken steps to regulate their charges has been a mystery to the people of this state for a long time.

$300 for Letters About the Southwest.

The Rock Island System offers twenty prizes, of the aggregate value of $300, for letters relative to the territory along its lines in Arkansas, Kansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Letters should deal with the writer's experience since he settled in the southwest. They should tell how much money he had when he arrived, what he did when he first came, what measure of success has since rewarded his efforts and what he thinks of that portion of the country in which he is located. Letters should not be less than 300 nor more than 1,500 words in length and will be used for the purpose of advertising the southwest.

Letters are desired not only from farmers and farmers' wives but also from merchants, school teachers, clergymen; from everyone, in brief, who has a story to tell and who knows how to tell it.

For circular giving details, write JOHN SCHASTIAN, Passenger Traffic Manager, Rock Island System, Chicago, Ill.

Speaking of Goodland.

We made a quick trip to Goodland Monday. Our sister city is putting on a good deal of style these days. Over fifty residences have been built during the past year, which would indicate a very healthy growth. We found the Stewart boys of the Republic busy at work. MINING COMPANY FORMED.

The Eclipse Mining Company Has Goodland Man in It.

The Eclipse Mining company, with its three claims in Chaffee county, Colo., and not more than one and a half miles from the town of Granite, has been formed, and subscription for stock is being received. C. R. Fuller, of Granite, Colo., a mining engineer, is the owner, and associated with him is a Goodland man, Engineer B. W. Mathews, promoter of the company.

The new company's mining properties are situated on Yankee Blade mountain, and are surrounded by paying mines. The Eclipse has known veins running through it, which, in adjoining mines, have produced a million dollars worth of bullion. Assays have been repeatedly made of the ore taken from the Eclipse properties, which have returned values from $3 to $70 per ton.

The promoters of the new company will not incorporate until they are ready to open the mines. The results secured from this practically undeveloped ground are very encouraging. Those who desire stock do not have to pay in their money until they have examined the properties and are satisfied that it is a good thing. The stock is non-assessable.

Those who have given the mines close inspection believe that a proper development will bring rich returns to the investors.

An Old-Timer in Goodland.

J. B. Jennings, of Jennings, Kan., was in Goodland Tuesday. He came to Rawlins county in 1874. The town of Jennings was named after him. At the time he settled in western Kansas, both buffalo and Indians were plenty, and he took part in pursuit of the Cheyenne Indians who massacred many settlers on the Sappa in 1878. Mr. Jennings is engaged in the stock business, and his opinion is that western Kansas is gradually and steadily improving.

Assessor E. F. Murphy Says Census Will Reach 1,600 Mark.

E. F. Murphy, assessor and census taker for Goodland, is now engaged in doing his work for the year 1904, and although he has not finished taking the census, he says that the population of Goodland will reach the 1,600 mark. Last year the town had a population of 1,335, and allowing that 1,600 is a conservative estimate for this year, the increase that Goodland has made in one year, in point of population, is 265 people. This shows a good annual growth and proves that the building era here has been in response to the actual demand of people who have to have some place to live.

Bail was fixed at $2,000.

Bandy has been in jail since the conclusion of the trial, and is trying to get sureties for his release. He has secured men on his bond who have qualified for $3,000, but Sheriff Bradley has not approved the bond.

The council authorized the purchase of 2,000 feet of three inch, wrought-iron, galvanized pipe for the extension and improvement of mains on east and west Eleventh street.

The committee on finance was requested to consult the city attorney as to the necessary legal steps to be taken to raise funds to build a stand pipe, and report plan at a called meeting of the council.

DEATH IN RATTLESNAKE BITE

VIOLET PALMER, THREE YEARS OLD, DIES FROM BITE ON LEG.

Little Girl Busy at "Play House" When Rattlesnake Struck Its Fatal Blow—Remedies Fail and Body Turns Spotted.

Violet Palmer, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrene Palmer, who live ten miles southeast of Goodland, was bitten on the leg by a rattlesnake shortly after dinner Friday and died the following morning at 2:30 o'clock.

The little girl was playing outside of the house and was busy around a little play-house of her own, when something stung her just above the shoe top, not noticing the snake. In a minute it hurt her so, Violet ran to her mother, crying and saying that something had got in her shoe. There was the bite in the flesh, but the thought that a rattlesnake had done the work was not considered until the play-house ground was looked over when a restless, coiling monster rattler was encountered and killed.

Mr. Palmer hastened to town for medical assistance, and meanwhile ammonia, turpentine and a plaster of mud applied to the wound. Whiskey was also given, and soon antidote prescribed by Dr. Gulick. Early in the morning the patient fell into a deep sleep followed by extreme restlessness, and died in agony. The foot was badly swollen, and parts of the body turned spotted.

Funeral services were held at the home Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. J. E. Stevens officiating. Burial was made in the Dunkard cemetery, five miles southwest of Goodland.

This is the first instance of death from a rattlesnake bite in the history of this county. Several persons have been bitten, all older than Violet Palmer, but they all recovered after much suffering.

The Kansan Again.

John W. Conway thus analyzes a Kansan in the Norton Champion: "There are many people on this sterile globe who ought to be in Kansas earning salvation and happiness here. Not that the residents of the state are immune from evil; there are many people in Kansas who ought to be in Gehenna; and many in Paradise who ought to be here, to enjoy perfect happiness. Kansas people have no desire to go to Heaven, judging by their conduct; laden like camels, they kneel not to go through the needle's eye; they are rich; have over $104,000,000 in banks and that sum signifies scarcely a fraction of their wealth. Faust's soul was battered to the devil to be delivered the moment he became satisfied with existing conditions. Were he a Kansan he would have been immortal, because never satisfied. The Kansan is starward bound hunting for difficulties; he makes a virtue of necessity, and coins hot winds into gold dollars. His cows have twins, his sheep triplets and the litter of his hogs literally manifold themselves to the 'nth' power. Out of his sorrows he reaps insurance and lodge resolutions. His summers are brawls of roses, and his winters health resorts. Kansans want nothing, but crave everything; their greatest need is company to make more food and happiness."
